

Hi, I'm Paul,

and I've been studying International Relations and Management at OTH Regensburg since the winter semester of 2024.

What I particularly appreciate about the program is its broad, interdisciplinary approach: it integrates content from politics, economics, culture, law, and languages, providing a comprehensive understanding of international contexts.

In addition, the program is distinguished by dedicated professors and numerous additional offerings from OTH Regensburg, which provide many opportunities for growth beyond the lectures.

Another plus is the personal atmosphere within the program. Close interaction among students and the IRM Network foster a strong sense of community across all class years.

If you have any questions about the program or life in Regensburg, feel free to reach out to me!

I look forward to hearing from you.
